NEVADA STOCKS SHOW GREAT LOSS

Depreciation of Fifty Million Dollars in Five Months is Announced.

TEN MILLIONS EVERY MONTH.

Comparisons Between Prices Paid Last November and Present Figures Startling-Decline Gradual.

During the past five months Nevada mining securities have depreciated in value $50,000,000. This is at the rate of $10,000,000 a month. The authority for these figures is the Reno Evening Gazette, which shows some startling comparisons between prices paid November 15 and May 6. Among the Bullfrog favorites National Bank on Nov. 15—five months ago—brought 77 cents. It changed hands at 25 Monday. Bullfrog has dropped from 55 to 15 during the past five months, and Montgomery Mountain, from 75 to 15 in the same time. Gold Bar has lost just $1, selling Nov. 15 for $1.87 and Monday for $7 cents. The Goldfields show even a greater decrease. Consolidated sold Nov. 15 at $10 and Monday brought but $7.50. Silver Pick has lost just one cent less than a doilar, having dropped from $1.90 to 91 cents. Attanta has dropped from $6.50 to $2.85, and Kewanos from $1.50 to 98 cents. Similarly large declines can be cited for other stocks. Bullfrog favorites National Bank on

NEVADA PUZZLED.

The figure is staggering $50,000,000 difference in the stock board valuation of a state's stocks for five months is starting even to those who know how stocks go up and down. The Reno paper says everyone is at a loss to understand this change for the worse. understand this change for the worse. "There is no feeling of panic and no one seems to believe the bottom has fallen out," it reasons. "Many guesses are made but they are mostly born of a lively imagination. The thing is mysterious, and more so when stocks are weaker than ever just when labor troubles are at an end and better things might be expected. The mines are here, and they are the greatest mines in the world made none the less so by stock fluctuations."

PUBLIC IS WARY.

The stock game throughout the United States is not being played so heavily by the general public as it was last summer. Affairs like the recent New York flurry have frightened the small buyer out of the game. He has been shown how far outside the circle he is while dabbling in stocks with his little savings. Now he wants to be sure that he is buying something seft as mining stocks go, but finds the really safe offerings are too high priced. The stream of money pouring into the stock pits last summer has been shut off and diverted to other charmels and things are settling graduchannels and things are settling gradually as a result. The elimination of speculation is bringing about a safer state of affairs. More good than harm will come out of the changes now taking

TRADING LIVELIER

Favorite Stocks Are Firm and in Demand at Advanced Prices.

Frading was somewhat livelier this Trading was somewhat livelier this morning on the local mining stock exchange and better totals were chalked up for the session. May Day continues to be a favorite, while Uncle Sam is still drooping a little. Beek Tunnel dropped a few points during trading. Colorado is at the $3.05 mark and locks good to the brokers at this advanced figure. Yankee is strong at 52 and in demand. All stocks are firm and a feeling of satisfaction was a result. Sunday morning, May 12. The cars will be switched off on the refinery spur for the exclusive use of the sight-seers during their stay in Spring Valley. The return trip will be made Sunday night, the arrival here being set for 8 o'clock. Monday morning.

The purpose of the trip is well explained in a paragraph in a lette, sent out by the executive commutate of the oil company. It reads: "The production and refining of oil so near our door will be an important factor in the future business of this state and an industry entirely new to this region. Information may prove interesting." Information about an industry entirely new to this region. Information about an industry entirely new to this region is interesting and no sooner had a committee comprising O. K. Lewis, C. N. Strevell, S. S. Porter and A. V. Taylor, representing the oil company started talking the trip than friends on all sides expressed a desire to go along to see for themselves. The excursion was an assured success from the start and the men going represent the best and most prominent of this and neighboring cities.

UNCLE SAM AND MAY DAY.

Dowries Arranged: Details Considered And Merger Ceremony Comes Next.

The Uncle Sam and May Day proper-ties are to be consolidated and brought together on an equal basis. This plan was adopted at a meeting of directors of both companies, and it was further of both companies, and it was turned decided that the company taking over the May Day and Uncle Sam would not take in the Humbug ground nor the four-fifths interest in the Richmond & Anaconda, also held by the Uncle Sam company. The name of the new comcompany. The name of the new com-pany, its capitalization and similar items will be brought up for considera-tion after the decision of the companies' tion after the decision of the companies' directors has been ratified by stockholders of both companies. The Uncle Sam ground is much lower than that of the May Day and the latter can be worked at a good depth from the former. The Uncle Sam's mill, which goes in with the other item, will be enlarged so it will be able to handle the output of both properties. Both properties have good bodies of ore and the deal, it is believed by those most interested, will make one big mine really worth while,

Decreasing Supply of Wood Leads to

Series of Experimental Treatments.

Mining people are well aware of the decreasing supply and increasing price of timber suitable for mining purposes. The time has come when every stick of timber used either inside or outside the mines should be so handled during its entire life that it may be expected to give its greatest service. The Philadelphia & Reading Coal and Iron Co. and the United States Forest service, in February, 1906, planned a series of experiments to be conducted along practical and economic lines with the primary idea of saving timber and money. Actual tests have been carried on to discover just what methods of handling and treatment would give the greatest service at the least expense. Series of Experimental Treatments.

would give the greatest service at the least expense.

Timber for mining purposes has heretofore been rushed from the woods to the mines and placed in the mines in an absolutely green and unpeeled condition, with the result that decay or dry rot causes rapid destruction. We believe by better methods of handling, such as peeling and seasoning and by a preservative treatment with oils or chemical salts, that the life of this timber would be prolonged and its reneral condition, both as to soundness and strength, considerably improved.

ness and strength, considerately proved.

Ventilation is a large factor in the destruction of timber by decay. In badly ventilated air-courses, where there is sufficient moisture and temperature, decay is maximum. For wood-destroying organisms to exist, they must have air and water. If it were possible to keen the timber always wet or always dry, it would not decay, it is the alternation of wet and dry conditions which produce rot. By direct experiment, it has been definitely proven that in durability, neeled timber is superior to unpecled timber. ly proven that in durability, neeled timber is superior to unpecied timber. In unpecied timber the space between the bark and the wood favors the development of wood-destroying organisms and furnishes a breeding place for many forms of insect life. Pecied timber is 7 to 8 per cent lighter than unpecied timber.

Of the treated timbers these freated with crossote and a solution of the seconds.

Of the treated timbers these treated with creosote and a solution of zine chloride by the open-tank method, have been very successful. A good senetration of the wood by the preserving fuld (2 inches to 5 inches) has been easily secured and timbers so reated are effectively resisting decay. Timbers treated by the cylinder rocess are also standing well, but in order to be a profitable investment, they will have to show a considerable

LONDON.

London, May 9.—The offerings at the wool auction sales today amounted to 12.-557 bales. All sections bought freely and the prices realized were the highest of the series. German and home spinners were eager competitors for scoureds. Tasmanian greasy was in active demand for home and American buyers and the latter also took several parcels of New South Wales clothing and Victorian comb back greasy at top prices. The withdrawals to date amounted to 7,000 bales.

MOSCOW Mining and Milling Company.

MATTHEW CULLEN, President. L. H. FARNSWORTH, Treasurer. ERED T. M'GURRIN, Secretary.

This company is capitalized for one million dollars, divided into one million shares of the par value of one dollar each. The company owns the famous Burning Moscow group of mining claims, consisting of the Burning Moscow, the Local, Equinox, Uranus Fraction, Moscow Extension and Kremlin Fraction. The value of this property is known to every mining man who ever visited Beaver county. The company is now extracting and shipping ore to the smelters.

To at once equip the property with suitable machinery, one hundred thousand shares of the treasury stock of the company will be sold at fifty cents per share. When this amount has been subscribed, no more

E. P. Miller of Salt Lake and Dr. C. A. Wherry of Ogden went to Goldfield a few days ago to look after their mining interests. Both are among the principal stockholders of the Utah Velvet Mining and Leasing company, which has a lease on the Velvet. The shaft is down 300 feet. A ledge was cut at 30 feet and at the 200-foot level a good quality of ore was uncovered in drifting. 15 feet from the shaft. Another ledge was cut at the 95-foot level and M. Miller expects that the same ledge will be encountered in the shaft in another 20 feet. They will then drift on the ledge.
